Dementia & Empathy Training

On-demand Training

Step into the world of someone living with dementia. Gain perspective, not just information.

- Empathy-based, experiential training that builds emotional resilience and reduces caregiver frustration.
- Experience symptoms of cognitive decline, including perceptual changes and hallucinations.
- Walk through components of caregiving that need to be navigated, including verbal confusion and shame.

Take the Course

Through this immersive course, you will explore the variety of symptoms that occur during one's dementia journey, while being tasked with completing instrumental activities of daily living to understand how these symptoms play a role in the lived experience of someone living with dementia. Learn from a clinical neuroscientist about how these symptoms work together, and how to rethink the day to day care experience to enable person-centered environments and support the nuanced needs of people living with dementia.
